More of the Storm at the West.

Our forebodings of the farther effects of the ate gale have, we regret to say, been more than We must wait for arrivals frem up he lake, before we shall know the full extent of in disasters. The pier at Dunkirk is nearly demored. The Harrison and Chautauque laid at wharf there from Thursday till Sunday mornand much of the time were in imminent danand finally as a measure of safety took to the iste and came into port here yesterday noon, the draine, Capt. Tubes, that was also lying at Dunes, dragged her anchor Saturday night, and that the last that has been heard of her definitely .the report is that she went ashore near Silver (reek, and that all on board perished, and another that she went down the river early yesterday soming a wreck. She was heavily loaded with

The steamboat Chicago bound up, is ashore tree miles below Silver Creek. She was discovred about 9 A. M. the 19th, off Silver Creek, in istress. The citizens rallied and followed down the coast with ropes, to render assistance. She esched at 11 o'clock, and the crew and passenpers in the number of about 60, were all saved .-Her deck freight had been thrown overboard the night previous, both pipes carried away, and she became unmanageable. The gale struck her beween Conseaut and Ashtabula. She may be got off and her cargo saved. Biside these we hear that the following schooners to a shore on this side, mostly between this and Silver Creek: Henry Rook, loaded with 2,000 basels of corn, Jefferson, W. Joy, Tippecanoe, (alkon board lost;) Ben. Franklin, Merchant, Mr Bogrand, who last year sailed the Favorite, lost? M. Ney, (all on board lost,) and the brig O. Richmond. The particulars of the loss of the Jefferson, W. Joy and O. Richmond were given in Satorday's paper.

The schooners just in report seeing some twenty miles up the lake the 'fly' of a sunken schooner. apposed to be the Emily. The schooner Merwho were washed overboard at Grand River, Ohio. Walter-Rossan, a hand on the Jena, was also rashed overboard during the gale.

A box called Bill, who came on board the schr. Bucknor, at Cleveland, as cook, was also lost merboard. He said he was formerly attached to the schr. Huron.

The following schooners are ashore on the Canada side near Gravelly Bay: Indiana, loaded with salt, a total wreck; Mississippi, Cept. Raymond, for Kingston, loaded with flour and pork, a total wreck; Ohio, Capt. Robertson, loading light; M. Kingman, high and dry, will probably be got off; and the brig F. Mills and the schr. E. Jeany, the particulars of whose loss were given Saturday. A little above Point Abino is the Flerida, loaded with flour, pork and whiskey for this port. The H. Pierson, which came in during the storm on Saturday, was saved with great difficulty. All her sails are gone, together with her companionway and several spars. There is scarcely a vessel in the harhor but what has suffered more or less. In addition to this we have rumors of farther disasters, but in the absence of any authentic intelligence it is hardly worth while to give particulars of what, we trust, will prove unfounded reports, or a least greater exaggerations. The ascertained with is bad and sad enough. A more fearful gale was scarcely ever known in mid-winter on the Atlintic chast.

P.S. The brig Hoosier, that came in just before going to press, reports passing the steambeat Constellation in a distressed condition, off the Two Sisters. The Constellation left this port last Wednesday or Thursday. How seriously injured the Hoosier is can't say, as she did not pass within biling distance. She also reports the schr. Michigan with rudder unshipped at Put-in-Bay Island. [Buffalo. Adv. Monday 21st.

The name of the family lost in the Jefferson was Woods-they were from Connecticut, either Hart ford or New-Haven. The Cleveland Herald of Saturday contains the following letter from Fair-FAIRPORT, Nov. 18, 12 o'clock.

DEAR SIR-For the information of ship owners and forwarders at your place, I will state that the following vessels are now riding at anchor below the East pier and inside the outer bar or middle ground, viz: Schrs. Western Trader, Ney, Merchant, Allegan, and John Grant. The schooner Benj. Franklin has just gone ashore. The schrs. M. L. Moray, Moses & Elias, and Texas, made the harbor. Several vessels missed the harbor and succeeded in making an offing. Among the number was the brig Missouri. The vessel first named are in imminent danger. Should the wind shift to the northward they will most likely go ashore. Your ob't serv't, ADDISON HILLS.

The Rochester Post of Monday evening says: "The Canada steamer America, from Toronto, struggled to Rochester through the storm on Friday night, losing her small boats and other fixings.

The Troy Whig of yesterday says: "The weather continues cold. There was considerable ice running out of the Mohawk yesterday morning. It is feared that a vast amount of wheat. flour and other articles will be frozen up in the canal, unless the weather should moderate very materially. The amount of property now on the canal, on its way down, was never so great."

The weather has been very boisterous during the last two or three days. On Thursday we had two or three light snow showers from the East, and about 11 P. M. the wind suddenly veered round to the West-blowing a burricane. Three barges and two wood boats broke from their moorings during the night, and drifted on Point Frederick. The lake steamer was obliged to put back and lie at anchor off Simco Island till morning. Yesterday we had a heavy snow storm, and although the sky has cleared up a little this morning, neither lake nor bay boat would be able to make headway against the high winds prevailing.

A GREAT EVENT DOWN EAST. Hear what the Portland Bulletin says of it:

A friend of ours has been exciting our risibilities by relating a circumstance which took place on the railroad, as the cars were coming in the other afternoon. While the fire steed was putting in his prettiest licks, shooting along the track like a meteor-the engineer discovered far ahead a man swaying to and fro a large stick as if making signs. Supposing that some accident might have happened to the rails, or that some impediment might be in the way, he prudently shut off the steam, and put on all force to check the progress of the cars, so that they came to a dead halt on arriving at the spot where the man stood.

"What is the matter?" enquired the conductor "Matter!" thundered the chap, brandishing his stick on high in token of defiance; "I've fought your lions, your tigers, and your wild rear ing bulls of Bashan, and do you think I 'm afraid of a -- old cook stove on wheels!" It turned out that the fellow was crazy, and that he had escaped from a neighboring house where he had been

Education of Early Childhood. We now arrive at the period when the initiation of the child into Industry, or the awakening in it of a taste for industrial occupations, takes place. Unless the developement of Industrial Instincts be early commenced, the whole System of Education will be a failure. The first tendency of Man being is falsely commenced, if in the outstart, at about the age of two years, it does not devote itself freely and spontaneously to productive Industry, which is strovs whatever comes in its way, which foolish parents think charming.

As soon as the child can walk and run about, it passes from the class of the Weaned to the next class in age, which we will term the Commencers. If it has been brought up from its birth in the Nurseries of an Association, it will be strong enough at the age of twenty-one months to join the children of this Class. There is no distinction made at this age between the two sexes, as it is important to misgle and confound them in order to facilitate the free developement of Industrial tastes or talents. A distinction between the sexes commences with the Class next in age,-with children from three, to four and a half years old

We have before remarked that Nature gives to each child a large number of industrial instincts or talents .- about thirty; some of which are primary or directing instincts, and should lead to those which are secondary.

The first object is to discover in the child its primary instincts: they will be awakened as soon as it is brought in contact with the occupations to which those instincts direct it. As soon as it can walk and leave the Nursery, it is confided to the care of a Class of Teachers who have the instruction of this age, and whom we will term Mentors. Their systems will differ from those of Tutors at present, who endeavor to smother Nature, and substitute their doctrines in place of her true imworkshops of the Association, and to all industrial assemblages of children; and as it will find little tools and little workshops placed alongside the large ones, where children at the age of thirty-six months are taught to perform some trifling branch of work, it will wish to mingle with them in their occupations, and handle the tools; it will be easy, in consequence, to discover at the end of a couple of weeks which are the workshops that attract it the most, and for what branches of Industry is shows a taste.

As the branches of Industry of an Association are extremely varied, it is impossible that the child surrounded by them should not find the means of satisfying several of its predominant instincts; they will be awakened by the sight of little tools, handled by children a few months older than themselves In the opinion of parents and teachers, children are lazy little creatures; nothing is more false: children from two to three years of age are very active, but we must know the means which Nature employs-in the Passional Series, and not in Civilization-to attract them to Industry.

The predominant tastes or characteristics in all children, are:

1st. Propensity to pry into every thing, to meddle with and bandle whatever they see, and to vary continually their occupations.

2d. Taste for noisy occupations. 3d. Propensity for imitation.

4th. Love of little tools and workshops. 5th. Progressive influence of the older children non the younger. There are many others, but we mention first these ave, which are well known at present. Let us examine the application to be made of them to direct the child in its early age to Industry.

The Mentors, or Tutors, will first avail themselves of the propensity of the child to pry into every thing, a propensity which is so strong at the age of two years. It wishes to enter every where, handle every thing, and meddle with wnatever it sees. This instinct in the child is a natural incentive to Industry. To awaken in it a taste for its occupations, it will be taken to the little workshops, where it will see children three years old capable of handling little hammers and other tools. Its propensity for imitation will be aroused, which it will wish to satisfy; some little tools will be given it, but it will desire to take part with the children a little older than itself, who know how to work, and who, in consequence, will refuse to receive it.

The child will persevere, if it has a decided inclination or instinct for the branch of Industry. As soon as the Mentor perceives this, he will teach it some little detail connected with the work, and it will soon succeed in making itself useful in some trifles, which will serve as an introduction.

In all branches, some trifling occupations are left for childhood as a means of initiation into Industry. For the child two years old these occupations must be very easy of execution, but in performing them, it will believe that it has done something of consequence, and that it is almost the equal of children hree or four months older than itself, who are already members of Groups, and who wear their little ornaments and uniforms, which inspire with profound respect the young beginner.

Means of Developing Vocations in Children

1st. Little workshops and tools. 2d. Privilege of parade and handling of tools

3d. Charm of graduatedornaments. 4th. Advantage of choosing in each branch of Industry the detail which the child likes. 5th. Imitative propensity which is predominant in childhood. 6th. Inclination of children to follow the impulses and examples of comrades a little older than themselves. 7th. The pleasure of short and gay occupations, requently varied and animated by emulation. 8th. Enthusiasm for prodigies performed by Groups of children somewhat older than them-of work.

10th. The influence of a system of progressive distribution, which is the order of Nature, and FOUR DOLLARS A YEAR.

yet accurately state it.

Nineteen years ago last April a fit of sickness left me with an Erysipelas eruption. Dropsical collections immediately took place over the entire surface of my body, causing such took place over the entire surface of my dooy, catastic start an enlargement that it was necessary to add a haif yard to the size of my dresses around the waist. Next followed, upon my limbs, ulcers, painful beyond description. For years, both in summer and winter, the only mitigation of my suffering was found in pouring upon those parts cold my sthering was four in pointing about note pay whole body. There was literally for me no rest, by day or by night. Upon lying down these pains would snoot through my system, and compel me arise, and, for hours together, walk the house, so that I was aimost entirely deprived of walk the house, so that I was almost entirely deprived of sleep. During this time the Erysipelas continued active, and the ulcers entarged, and so devely have these caten, that for two and a half years they have been subject to bleeding. During these almost twenty years I have consulted many physicians. These have contied my disease—as it was attended with an obstinate cough, and a steady and active pain in my side—a dropsical consumption; and though they have been skilful practitioners, they were only able to afford my case a partial and temporary relief. I had rainy other difficulties to complicated to describe. I have also used many of the mediciness that have been I had ramy other difficulties to complicated to describe. I have also used many of the mediciness that have been recommended as intallible cures for this disease, yet these all failed, and I was most empirationally growing worse. In this critical condition, given up by friends, and expecting, for myself, relief only in death, I was by the timely interposition of a kind Providence, turnished with your, to ne, invaluable Sarsaparilla. A single bottle gave me an assurance of health, which for twenty years I had not once telt. Upon taking the second, my enlargement diminished, and in twelve days from the 5th October, whea I commenced taking your Sarsaparilla, I was able to enjoy sleep andrest, by night, as refreshing as any I ever enjoyed when in perfect health. Besides, I was, in this short time, relieved from all those excrutating and unalleviated pains that had afflicted my days, as well as robbed me of my night's repose. The alcers upon my limbs are heated. my night's repose. The alcers upon my limbs are heated the Erysipelas cured, and my size reduced nearly to my former measure.

Thus much do I feel it a privilege to testify to the effi cacy of your health-restoring Sarsaparilla. A thousand thanks, sirs, from one whose comfort and whose hope of future health are due, under God, to your instrumentality. And may the same Providence that directed me to your aid, make you the happy and honored instruments of blessng others, as diseased and despairing as your much re-eved and very grateful friend.

MESSES. SANDS—GENTLEMEN: If you alone were concerned in the present statement, the great inducement for making it would be removed; for of course no testimony can strengthen your own convictions in relation to the value and efficiency of your. Sursaparilla, which has aiready proved such a blessing to the many hundreds who have used it. But I have looked upon the world encircling in its arms thousands bowed down with sufferings similar to my own, who would gladly hasten to the same source that restored my health, it they were persuaded they would meet with the same happy results. Therefore, gentlemen, it is that those thousands may be convinced, and profit by their conviction as I have done, that induces me to state be. their conviction as I have done, that induces me to state be fore the world a period of suffering such as few have snewn, and the permanent relief I received from your Sarsaparilla. But how shall I begin, or how describe those exercicating agonles that seized upon my frame? Early in the month of June, 1840, I was first attached with theoretical the month of June, 1910, 1 to believe, by n sev contracted while nursing one of my children, who was then ery ill.

My suffering soon became intense, everywhere I seemet My suffering soon became intense, everywhere i seemed diseased. For five months I was unable to walk, and too six weeks did not lie upon a hed, but was obliged to remain in a sitting posture, that being less agonizing than any other. My whole body was so sore and racked with pain that the slightest touch caused inexpressible distress. For a pethe slightest touch caused inexpressible distress. For a period of many months I did not sleep but two nights, and the only rest I obtained was during the day, when nature became exhausted and I fell into a slumber, from which I was soon awakened by the beating and throbbing pain. My timbs were swollen and my shoulders drawn out of place, and altogether I was rendered entirely helpless. I obtained the best medical advice, but without receiving any permanent relief. The rheumatism heing cambined with a swelling and painful affection of the joints, rendered it still worse. Tumors formed under the skin, round my head, which caused burning and lanciating pains similar to scrofula of the glands.

My groans at night caused the watchman to stop in the street as he passed by; and when many of my friends re-siding in Poughkeepsie last visited me, they bid me fare-well, as they then thought for ever; and pone the family as-sembled in the room to watch the last spark of fife go out. sembled in the room to watch the last spars of need out of fame of life again glared up within me; and soon after this I heard of your Sarsaparilla, and determined to try it; and behold the result. After taking one bottle the pain left me, and I was able to waik and sieep. I could scarcely realize the transition—so sudden, so complete. After using four or five bottles, I was entirely cured. And are you alone, gentlemen, concerned to know it? I think not; and this language is too mild for the occasion. For I not; and this language is too mild for the occasion. For I know that the medicine that possesses the power to cure me is capable of conferring the same blessing upon thousands of others suffering—perhaps dying; therefore, these are all concerned to know that they can be cured. In fact, all are concerned in the discovery of any thing that tends to promote the happiness of the human race; for we are social beings, and cannot suffer alone. Persons may doubt this statement if they will, and go on and suffer and die, I have discharged a duty which I felt incumbent upon me in making it known for the benefit of those who choose to believe it. And when I look into the past—upon those toliary days and sleepless nights—I thank God that I as a s I am. And I thank you, gentiemen, that you have made science mints. I thank you, gentlemen, that you have made science minis-ter unto our infirmities, and I, for one, will proclaim the Respectfully, ANN BROWN, 479 Houston street.
